sonner all players drop to this fact that the advance evil will be sheltered forever.

Manager Conway has signed some youngsters in R. F. Lord, an out-fielder from the Connecticut team; Harry Harrison, a pitcher from the New York team; and John Knight, a high school third baseman.

Harry Knight is probably the best center in the independent ranks today, and for the past two or three years has been vigorously lashed down by the experienced managers of the two leagues. Knight has all the qualifications of a good player—headiness, speed, and a good swing. He should prove the find of the year. Lord is an excellent player. Knight will be a dominant force in the Conway company, but has all the earmarks of a corker.

Appearances point to a peaceful ending of the American Association war signs, and the next president of the league is expected, President Ed Griffin and George Thibaut met in Chicago the other day, and Griffin later announced that he had no intention of leaving Griffin's position as the executive head of the organization.

The effect of the proposed legislation by the American League is not yet known, but also discussed, but it was admitted that unless the American League could be won over there is no hope for a change in the National agreement.

"I will have the stone returned to win the championship for Boston next season," said Trumper Taylor. He then, to make good his word, immediately turned over Stone to the St. Louis Browns.

There was nothing but strikes and spare for Jimmy Myers at the Hub alleys. That cross alley ball of yours Jimmy is a beauty.

Who says Billy Rinius is a hasbeen? That way the "old boy" was flooring the pinball. Last night was worth going miles to see.

McPhee, of Casino alleys, probably secures more strikes than any man in Boston. He has an excellent first ball, but is rather weak in picking up the single pins.

If Girls Were Men

Readers Offer Views on This Interesting
Supposition. What Do You Think About It?

VERYONE seems to be taking up the question of "If Girls Were Men." It is an interesting subject which has been discussed in the columns of the Boston American for some time. The question is: What would be the result if girls were men? The answer is: It would be a very different world. The girls would be the men, and the men would be the girls. The world would be a very different place. The girls would be the men, and the men would be the girls. The world would be a very different place.

What She Had On and Why She Wore It

A Dainty and charmingly simple evening costume. A beautiful ball dress, very appropriate for the debutante. The gown was of white silk gauze, embroidered with pale yellow wheat heads on each side panel.

Except in the front panel, they tucked round the top of the skirt. The bodice, low and square-cut, was covered with Val lace and shined low in front with two revers turned back and lined with pale blue velvet. Beneath the revers the space was filled with muted mosses and dots. The bodice ended in a pale blue velvet Louis XVI. girle.

An open cloak of white silk, covered with cluny lace and edged with chinchilla, completed this beautiful evening outfit.

Girls of Fourteen Should Not Be Taught In Classes With Boys of the Same Age

(Copyright, 1908, by American Journal Company)

The Board of Education in New York City needs a conservation of the women of the Optimist Club are about to offer them a body to fill that office.

The Board of Education and the Board of Superintendents together have, it is said, decided to educate young girls from twelve to fourteen years of age in classes with boys.

In this decision the members of the Optimist Club have resolved to follow a man principal.

We, as women and mothers, most earnestly protest against such a proposition. We believe that girls of that tender age should be placed under the direct care and influence of the best and the most experienced women teachers on principles in the service, as during the transition period girls should be carefully guarded from temptations such as are constantly arising in a school of this kind.

We want to be put on record as having decidedly opposed to any such plan, as it is a violation of the laws of the young girls of today, and their morals will be the future of the nation.

It would be interesting could all the members of all boards of education be examined under the X-ray for the best of all advice to the Lovelorn.

These men seem to belong to a of the mothers and women will have a good quality for themselves. They have weight, and that the educators need to be studied like prehistoric birds and animals.

However modest and refined a young girl may be through home training and natural impulses, she could not be forced into preposterous tendencies if placed in contact with a young man of the opposite sex and declared from the influence of wise and good women during that period of life.

It is to be hoped that the resolution to expose her choice before it is too late, and that the educators need to be studied like prehistoric birds and animals.
